

---

De Laval Separator – Viking Revisited

Michael Padwee (#3636)

After reading Stellan Swenson's article "New User of Pattern L22" in the Sept/Oct 2008 Perfins Bulletin, I Googled the De Laval Separator Company. I found an image of a circa 1910 advertising poster for De Laval milk separators that listed 165 Broadway, New York, NY as its NYC address. Also, I downloaded an undated manual that also listed this address for De Laval in NYC.

Since Church Street (Viking's address) and Broadway are parallel. Although they probably did have other business connections, both companies probably did not share offices, unless they moved closer together by the date on the cover.

---